

Native Alaskan people had over 10 words to describe different types of snow depending on the related actions: sledging, igloo building, blowing, etc. Click on the "note" icons to read the various definitions for work.

9 Types of Work

Figure 18 is a diagram illustrating the relationship between different types of work and their associated products and rewards. It is structured as follows:

- Entrepreneurial, Employment, and Intrinsic Interest are grouped together by a bracket and labeled as Product Work.
- Integration Work is positioned above Product Work.
- Project Transformation Flux is positioned between Product Work and Product of the Role.
- Product of the Role is positioned to the right of Product Work and Integration Work.
- Control Work is positioned above Product of the Role, with an upward-pointing arrow connecting them.
- Bonus, Pay, and Intrinsic Reward & Status are grouped together by a bracket and positioned to the right of Product of the Role.
